

OGDEN GAINS IN GRAIN STORAGE

Wheat From Western States and Corn From Nebraska
Received Here

Ogden is fast becoming the grain center of the west, according to Manager J. H. Barnhardt of the Globe Grain and Milling company of Ogden. Wheat is arriving daily from Idaho and other states, the Globe company alone receiving from 25 to 30 cars daily from various western points.

"During the present month the Globe Milling company will have handled more than 1000 cars of grain from Idaho and nearby states," said Manager Barnhardt today. "Indications point to an even heavier amount of cars in January than during the present month. A steady demand is being made for wheat in all parts of the country and our elevators are handling a record amount of this wheat."

Besides the wheat we are also handling a great amount of corn. More than 75 cars of corn from Nebraska is en route to Ogden to be handled for distribution for western points.

"We have the only drier between Denver and the Pacific coast and are therefore able to handle corn. The corn we are taking care of is the first to ever be shipped west for distribution of this character."

"Ogden is the distributing point for grain for the entire western section and for other products as well. It is becoming the leading center of the west in this industry just as Minneapolis is one of the big centers of the east."

"Oats are also being received here daily for distribution. The various products received here are distributed in Utah, California, Idaho, Nevada and other western states."

"We expect a large shipment of grain to our local plant during the month of January."

PROFIT-SHARING IN SUGAR URGED

Beet Growers to Propose '50-50' Proposition With Producers

The report of the sugar beet committee is expected to be one of the most interesting features of the annual convention of the Utah state farm bureau in Salt Lake early next month.

James R. Deus is chairman of this committee and will read the report of the work accomplished to date, including the developments in the proposed profit-sharing plan for beet growers and sugar manufacturers.

Under this proposed plan there would be no fixed or guaranteed price for beets. The farmers want to share fifty-fifty in the profits of the sugar industry.

It is the contention of the farmers' organization that the cost of growing sugar beets and the cost of sugar production are equal and therefore the profits should be shared equally.

The farmers propose that the basis for settlement shall be the average seaboard price of sugar for one year, whether the sugar companies sell or hold their sugar.

It is understood that the sugar companies have attacked the figures submitted by the farmers as to how much it costs the growers to produce beets. And the growers are conducting an investigation to determine whether the sugar company's figures on the cost of production are correct.

The sugar operators are said to be of the opinion that the profit sharing should be on a 47-53 basis, with the farmers receiving the lesser share.

When the farmers' sugar beet committee completes its investigations a definite proposition will be made to the sugar company and the matter will be thrashed out at a conference between representatives of the farmers and the representatives of the sugar companies.
